VISITOR AND HOSTESS

MISS JOSEPHINE HAMNER, in whose honor her sister, Mrs. C. M. Wilcox, is giving a dancing party this evening. The charming visitor, whose home is in Sweetwater, is the daughter of Judge E. J. Hamner, well known throughout Texas, and she is staying with Miss Ernestine Zavisch (whose picture is shown on the right) for a few days after the Wilcoxes go overland to California on Sunday. Miss Zavisch also entertained for Miss Hamner, with a bunco party Tuesday night.

Dinners, Luncheons, Teas.

In farewell to her sister, Mrs. D. Wren of Galveston, who is leaving for the right sort of a Fourth of July "celebration" on Wednesday night, when Ashley Gillette presided over an elaborate dinner, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gillette, in Sunset Heights, J. D. Scott, of Hutchinson, Kan., was guest.

Others at table numbering T. S. Hesse, R. A. Whitcomb, E. W. Harris, C. E. Edwards, E. C. Hark, T. Prall and A. B. Hughes, of Oklahoma, Tex., a relative of the host who is with the national corps of the army. Sentimental of Independence day, the decorative motif was carried out in red, white and blue, with fine crackers at each cover for favors. Red and white roses massed the center of the board, and an abundance of distinctive American flags—blue, white and red—were placed in the center of the table. After full justice had been done to the beautiful menu, the host did not overlook the fact that he was "feeding hungry men" who did not often enter home cooking, for he provided everything from a huge turkey and "stew kind of vegetable, a salad, 15 biscuits and four lemon pies, to divinity. There was made by Mr. Hughes and children singing by the boys. Later, fireworks were set off, and before guests were sent up, a watermelon feast was served and patriotic also. It is in company that Mrs. Gillette expects to do service for her country.

About El Pasoans.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Rose are expecting to take possession of their lovely new residence on North Campbell street at number 141 next week. The condition of Mrs. S. T. Adair, who is confined to a hospital in Port Worth as the result of an automobile accident, does not improve as her physicians had hoped for, and her daughter in this city, Mrs. J. J. Tuttle, of Monday avenue, Sunset Heights, expects to leave any day for her mother's bedside. A second daughter, Mrs. A. Philip Williams, of Joplin, Mo., has been sent for, and a son, Gay Adair, of Okemuh, Okla., is with her now. The accident befell Mrs. Adair when she was going from the station to the hotel—just passing through Port Worth and stopping for one day.

Urges a Community Choir To Give Music For Festal Affairs

By MRS. DAVID HOLGREN.

FROM small beginnings grown to a splendid size, the El Paso community choir has been organized for the purpose of giving music for festal affairs. The choir was organized by Mrs. David Holgren, of 1712 Chestnut street, Philadelphia. Anyone interested in furthering the movement here, it was necessary to organize and drill many separate sections, which were later united in a choir for the occasion. Much energy is being put into perfecting the choir, and by not permitting the choir to be a mere musical organization, but a social one. Community music furnishes a medium which is easily accepted for these special events.

In San Antonio last Christmas the community choir of 144 voices was thus increased by 100, the San Antonio orchestra and the bands of 17 militia regiments. The choir gave a great holiday demonstration. At the same time 15,000 people were singing songs out of doors at Antonio, Tex., while the State university celebrated its first Christmas tree. In Nashville, Tenn., the singers divided into groups and were about the use making collections for the poor of Nashville.

In El Paso all that has ever been needed is to start something to make a success. The different church choirs, the women's choirs, the men's choirs, have a chance to do their bit for the Red Cross in this most delightful fashion. How charming it would be to hear their voices floating into our windows these clear moonlight nights, and drop a note to the softest of notes, to give the musical surprise. Automobile parties might be made up carrying the singers from block to block.

Mr. Harry Barnhart, the father of community singing in America, led a chorus of 400 voices at a winter meeting in the New York Hippodrome. In El Paso, when it comes to give our choirs an opportunity, Cleveland, where the power municipal auditorium will probably accommodate it.

Weddings.

Rev. W. M. Fairley, of the Westminster Presbyterian church, officiated Wednesday afternoon at the marriage of Miss Helen Whitfield, of Mesquiteville, Ark., to David Dombek, of this city, who exchanged their vows in the pastor's home. The bride came to this city for the wedding, having been accompanied by a brother. They are to reside in El Paso.

Parties.

Her birthday falling on the fourth, Miss Vancie, of 1725 East Missouri street, had a dancing party, Wednesday night, with the tri-centers in evidence, including Mrs. Adams and Josephine Black, of Val Verde, were among the lot of town guests, who numbered more than 25.
